What's new in the Pokémon Trading Card Game:

Sun & Moon—Crimson Invasion expansion?

Pokémon-GX!

Pokémon-GX are powerful Pokémon with more HP and stronger attacks. Each one also has a super-powerful GX attack. You can't use more than one GX attack during an entire game, regardless of how many Pokémon-GX you play. Make sure you use that GX attack at the right strategic moment, because you only get one shot! The damage counter sheet includes a special GX marker to keep track of this–turn it face down once you've used up your GX attack for the game.

Now, Ultra Beasts have invaded the Pokémon TCG! These unusual Pokémon-GX stand out with red coloring instead of the typical GX blue. Each Ultra Beast has a special GX attack that has something to do with Prize cards. Be on the lookout for these incredibly powerful Pokémon!

*Special rules for Pokémon-GX

The GX is part of a Pokémon-GX's name. Thus, Salazzle and Salazzle-GX have different names, and you can have up to 4 of each in your deck if you wish.

Notice that Gyarados-GX evolves from Magikarp. This means you can evolve Magikarp into Gyarados OR Gyarados-GX. The choice is up to you! Also, Pokémon-GX have the same Evolution stages as most other Pokémon and follow the same rules. This means you can use a Basic Pokémon-GX as your starting Active Pokémon if you like!

This greater power comes with a greater risk: when one of your Pokémon-GX is Knocked Out, your opponent takes 2 Prize cards.

Alolan Pokémon!

You'll find some familiar Pokémon with a new look in the Alola region! These are known as Alolan Pokémon.

Note that "Alolan" is part of the Pokémon's name–this means that Alolan Persian can only evolve from Alolan Meowth, not from Meowth. Also, you can have up to 4 Persian and up to 4 Alolan Persian in your deck if you wish.

New rules for Burned Pokémon!

The Special Condition Burned works a little differently as of the Sun & Moon Series. Between turns, put 2 damage counters on a Burned Pokémon. Then, that Pokémon's owner flips a coin. If heads, remove the Special Condition Burned from that Pokémon.

Note that this rule applies any time a Pokémon is Burned, even if the Special Condition is caused by a card from an earlier expansion!
